Women's Legal Service Victoria is located on the traditional lands of the Wurundjeri people of the Kulin nation. We recognise Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples' continuing connection to land, water and community and pay respect to their Elders past and present. Sovereignty was never ceded.

Women's Legal Service is committed to providing safe and inclusive support.

Help for women experiencing family violence to find safety and get legal advice

Our lawyers, social workers and financial counsellors work with you to make sure that you have what you need to make decisions for yourself and your children, gain independence and financial stability.

How we help

Our team will work with you to make sure that you are safe, understand your legal rights and options and have the support you need to make decisions to gain independence.

We can help you to make sure:

- › police understand the family violence you have experienced
- › intervention orders protect you and your children from family violence
- › arrangements for the care of your children are safe and practical
- › Child Protection understand the family violence you have experienced
- › property is fairly divided when your relationship ends
- › your visa status in Australia is fairly determined
- › you get compensation for injuries and loss you have suffered due to family violence
- › creditors understand when family violence has impacted your ability to repay debts or bills
- › Centrelink gives you access to the supports you are entitled to

Our services are free and confidential.

Who we support

We prioritise support for women who:

- › have no or low income
- › do not have secure housing
- › are Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander
- › do not speak English or speak English as a second language
- › are on a temporary visa or do not have a visa
- › live with disability
  - › care for children with disability
